WELSH LABOUR/ LLAFUR CYMRU

I am a nurse who has lived in Heolgerrig for most of my life, excepting a few years studying at London university and some years living in Venezuela with my husband who is from Caracas.

We have two children and two grandchildren.

I have worked in PCH but my time as mostly been spent with patients receiving hemodialysis.

I have also spent time fundraising for kidney charities. This has been extremely rewarding and I count myself privileged to have been involved.

I joined the Labour Party in 2016 for many reasons but mainly because I believe in the principles of fairness, compassion and equality of opportunity which are still its core values and that these are what we need to aim for in society.

Since then, I have been an active member of Cyfarthfa Branch Labour Party. Over the past few years, we have had an annual collection of toiletries, personal hygiene products and pet food for Merthyr Cynon Foodbank.

I also believe that working in a group which shares common values will result in better collective decision making and increased stability.

My work over the years has taught me the value of cooperation, team working, of listening to people and trying to find practical solutions to problems. And the importance of honesty and accountability for my actions. If elected this would be my approach.
